

Where to Go From Here: A Final Reflection

Materials Needed:

- Copies of Our Fight Must Go On by Rene Maxwell. Can be found at the bottom of page below:
http://economichumanrights.org/old_site/facepage/pages/renemaxwell.html

Learning Objectives:

- Students will develop connections between their service-learning experiences to class content. They will experience personal growth through conversation and personal reflection.
- Students will conceptualize goals for service-learning in the future.
- Students will address their University's mission reflect on how it applies to service-learning at the organization of service.

Overview:

This Reflection is a good time for students to analyze and think back on their experiences over the course of the semester with the organization of service.

- Read poem to yourself and then aloud with students.
- Lead into the discussion questions and allow for conversation between students.
- Closing questions and comments.

Discussion Questions:

- What were your initial Reactions?
- Were there any lines that stood out, why?
- How does this poem apply to service-learning? Service-learning at the organization of service? The University's Mission?
- What were your reactions to Service-Learning at the organization this semester? Discuss the: highs, lows, challenges, aspects that were natural to you?
- Name some connections you made this semester which taught you something meaningful?